Listen and complete the gaps.

Introduction: In most

$\qquad$ countries, lots of teenagers work during their holiday and during the $\qquad$ too. Teenagers often put in local shops saying that they can cut grass, wash cars, babysit...

1. Dog walking is popular for teenagers who $\qquad$ . If they have several clients, they can make lots of $\qquad$ .
2. $\qquad$ and the North of the $\qquad$ get very cold in the winter. Just walking from your $\qquad$ to your $\qquad$ can be dangerous. But some people don't have enough time to clear the snow. So it's a great opportunity for $\qquad$ to make a few $\qquad$ They go door to door and offer their services to their $\qquad$ .

All they need if a snow shovel and a lot of $\qquad$ !
3. In $\qquad$ and $\qquad$ people like to read their while they're having $\qquad$ or on the way to work.

Teenagers are allowed to start work at $\qquad$ a.m. so they can $\qquad$ before they go to $\qquad$ . Paperboys or papergirls $\qquad$ up very $\qquad$ . They walk or $\qquad$ to go to the newsagent's. They pick up a big $\qquad$ and deliver the papers around the neighbourhood.
4. In $\qquad$ , teenagers between $\qquad$ and $\qquad$ are allowed to work
$\qquad$ hours a day on school days and $\qquad$ hours on Saturdays. And they can work
$\qquad$ hours a week during the holidays. In $\qquad$ , they usually stock shelves. They don't need a $\qquad$ but they need to be organized, $\qquad$ , polite and $\qquad$ to customers. Being on your $\qquad$ all day can be tiring and $\qquad$ But for $\qquad$ or $\qquad$ pounds for an hour it's worth it. It gives them some financial independence and it looks great on a CV.
5. On school days, $\qquad$ teenagers under $\qquad$ can work up to $\qquad$ hours. But when there's no school they can work up to $\qquad$ hours a week (when they're on holiday). A lot of high school students work in $\qquad$ and diners after school, at $\qquad$ or during the holidays. The wages are often low for waiters and $\qquad$ so tips are very $\qquad$ .

